O'NEILL-ADAMS CO. Old methods of piano selling versus the new nd how "Interest" figures in it

We say in this co-operation piano sale—"A 350 dollar piano for 248 dollars and 75 cents and NO INTEREST."

Do you know what that phrase "NO INTEREST" means? We will tell you.

It means more to you than you would dream of.

Through the regular way of selling pianos you are charged interest "on top" of the price of the piano. Thus—if you buy a piano for 350 dollars you do not pay 350 dollars: You pay 350 dollars and INTEREST.

Let us make this plain.

Suppose you were to buy a piano on the usual plan for 850 dollars. You were to pay, say, 20 dollars down, then 10 dollars a month and interest at 6 per cent.

Now, here is how this figures out:

850 dollars less 20 dollars (your first payment) leaves a balance of 880 dollars.

850 dollars divided by 10 dollars (the monthly payments)
equals 88 months, the time in which you pay.
6 per cent. interest (average) on 880 dollars for one month is 82½ cents.
85 months multiplied by 82½ cents equals 27 dollars and 25 cents TOTAL INTEREST.

850 dollars (price of the piano) plus 27 dollars and 28 cents INTEREST equals 377 dollars and 28 cents, what you actually pay.

Now, do you see what "and interest" means? It means, if you buy a 350 dollar piano on the old method of selling pianos (and 99 piano houses out of every 100 employ this method), and pay for it at the rate of 20 dollars cash and 10 dollars a month, and keep your payments right up to "the letter," that your piano will cost you not 350 dollars, but 377 dollars and 23 cents.

You pay 27 dollars and 23 cents interest. You pay 27 dollars and 23 cents extra, or 27 dollars and 23 cents over and above the "marked" price of the piano.

Those little words in your contract "and interest" look harmless and sound innocent enough, but in a case like we have just cited, they mean 27 dollars and 23 cents "tacked on" in addition to the "marked" price.

Now contrast the regular method of selling pianos with this co-operation

In the first place, on this plan, a 350 dollar piano does not cost you 850 dollars or anywhere near 350 dollars.

A 350 dollar piano costs you, during this co-operative sale, 248 dollars and 75 cents—giving you a clean cut saving, at the very start, of 101 dollars and 25

Instead of having to pay 350 dollars in 33 months (the usual terms) you are allowed 45 months to pay 248 dollars and 75 cents.

Do you see the difference this makes? On this co-operation plan, you are given 12 months longer time in which to pay 101 dollars and 25 cents less money.

As to the "interest"-there is no interest to be added to the price.

The price is 248 dollars and 75 cents and no more. There is no interest or no extras of any nature to run the price up higher than 248 dollars and 75 cents.

Or, putting it in still another way-248 dollars and 75 cents is the outside price. When you have paid 248 dollars and 75 cents you have finished paying.

There are no 20, 30 or 40 dollar extras "cropping up" to be paid afterwards.
